

Semi-parametric importance sampling for rare-event probability estimation

Z. Botey, P. L'Ecuyer

In this talk we consider a novel importance sampling scheme as a variance reduction tool in rare-event probability estimation. In contrast to most importance sampling schemes which are based on parametric modeling, such as exponential twisting, we consider instead a general semi-parametric approach. We apply the method to the estimation of the probability of large losses in portfolio credit risk analysis.